

John J. Sverha, MD

Dr. Sverha is a practicing community emergency physician from Arlington, VA.

He attended Yale Medical School and completed his emergency medicine residency at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. He works clinically at Virginia Hospital Center which is a 65,000 volume community emergency department and is currently the vice chairman of the emergency department. He also serves as the Chief Value Officer for Alteon Health Mid-Atlantic and its approximately 20 sites in the greater Washington, DC area. In this role he promotes the adoption of evidenced based clinical pathways, awareness of quality measures, and reduction of unnecessary testing.