

Jessica Whittle, MD, PhD, FACEP

Dr. Jessica S. Whittle is the Director of Research in the Department of Emergency Medicine at the University of Tennessee, Chattanooga / Erlanger hospital, and a Fellow of the American College of Emergency Physicians. Dr. Whittle completed her undergraduate degree in Biology Education at Appalachian State University. She then went on to earn her Ph.D., in Immunology and Molecular Pathogenesis at Emory University, and completed medical school at the University of Alabama, Birmingham. After residency training in Emergency Medicine at Orlando Regional Hospital in Orlando, FL, she has practiced in both community and academic practice settings. Dr. Whittle has been honored to serve on the ACEP Sepsis Technical Expert Panel, and served as the national ACEP liaison to the Infectious Disease Society of America. Research interests include sepsis, critical care, and patient access issues.